Choosing doctor = choosing group

If you choose an HMO, you must also choose a Primary Care Physician (PCP). When you pick your PCP you are also choosing, in advance, the medical group to which your doctor belongs—as well as the specialists and hospitals that you may use for non-emergency care.

The table to the right shows the availability of major, local medical groups by plan.

The table below shows the hospital affiliations for local medical groups.

Groups may choose to refer you to other facilities.

Always check with your insurance company to verify the availability of your medical providers. If you intend to see a new doctor, also verify availability with that doctor’s office. To search for a PCP, use your plan’s website.

- ◆ Your insurance company will usually let you change PCPs and groups mid-year; simply call the plan to request a change.
- ◆ If you don’t choose a PCP, you may be assigned one.
- ◆ CORE, UC Care, UC Health Savings Plan, UC High Option, UC Medicare PPO, and UC Medicare Choice members are not limited to pre-paid medical groups and are not required to choose a PCP.

Special points of interest:

- ◆ The table above shows major Davis/Sacramento area medical providers and their general PPO network status.
- ◆ Always check with your insurance company to verify that they contract with your providers. If you intend to see a new doctor, also verify availability with that doctor's office. Medical providers contract with PPO networks individually; not all doctors/hospitals/labs/etc. within a medical group necessarily contract with the same PPO networks.
- ◆ PPO = Preferred Provider Organization. Preferred providers cannot "balance bill" (charge more than their contractual rate with your plan). Anthem Preferred providers (and UC Select providers for UC Care) are considered In-Network because they have a contract with your plan. Out-of-Network providers have no contract limiting what they can charge; the patient is responsible for balance billing. To search for Anthem Preferred providers: ucppoplans.com/nh/find-a-provider
- ◆ For Anthem plans where Medicare is the primary payer (UC High Option, UC Medicare PPO): Any Medicare provider can be used; see www.medicare.gov to search for providers. Exception: services covered by your plan but not covered by Medicare (e.g. acupuncture). Note: Sutter primary care physicians are not accepting new Medicare patients in Davis/Sacramento.
- ◆ For the retiree Medicare Advantage PPO plan UC Medicare Choice (UnitedHealthcare), any Medicare provider can be used; see www.medicare.gov to search for providers. Note: providers bill UnitedHealthcare, not Medicare.
